Rev. Dr. S. H. Woodrow, Rev. William D. Moss, Rev. A. M. Thompson, Rev. S. V. Leech, Rev. Wil-Others Discuss the New Year.

Appeals for spiritual consideration were made in Washington pulpits yesterday, the first Sunday of the new year. At the First Congregational Church the pastor, Rev. Dr. S. H. Woodrow, spoke on the theme, "A fresh start," finding his text in the eighth chapter of St. John: "Thy sins be forgiven thee; go and sin no more." Dr. Woodrow said it is natural to think of life as a series of new starts.

Continuing, the preacher said: "The the book of life. But there is before us a new page. We can see the errors of 1909, and our task is to set ourselves seriously to correct those mistakes in 1910. If we have been sitting idly by and not making progress, we can, as wise men and women, set ourselves to a more worthy task in the days that are before us. The person who has ceased to make good resolutions has ceased to make moral and spiritual progress,"

Too Much Conservatism, "Conseratism is too universal," declared Rev. William D. Moss, pastor of the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church. "We are prone to look forward view of the Bible, which deals in futures ening and strengthening with the passing progress of time the complexity of our other's burdens and we have shared one civilization has rendered existence more another's joys. difficult, but it is my belief the future holds a square deal for all of us. God's creations are universally democratic; the will be corners in wheat or oil."

"The Adoration," was repeated at the come.
